In addition to the robbery, these men took the car of C. Edwin Wells from the College on the same evening and were caught a few days later near Hamburg, Ia.

Dolezal says he has been in trouble before, being out now on a three year parole from Douglas County, Nebr. This was the first offense for McKee and Porter. McKee is 19 years old and Porter 20 years old.

Roscoe Blazier, was given a sentence of one year in county jail when he pleaded guilty to violation of motor vehicle law.

NEW MAN AT LIGHT OFFICE

RAY L. HARRISON SUCCEEDS C. C. HELLMERS.

IS FROM AURORA, NEB.

To Have Charge of Electric Service Of Twenty Towns In Northwest Missouri Besides Maryville.

Ray L. Harrison has assumed his duties as manager of the office of the Maryville Electric Light & Power Co., succeeding C. C. Hellmers, who was transferred to Lincoln, Neb., to be in charge of public relations.

Mr. Harrison comes to Maryville from Aurora, Neb., where he was manager of the local office of the Nebraska Gas & Electric Co.

In addition to supervision over the Maryville office, Mr. Harrison will have charge of the electric service of twenty cities and towns of Northwest Missouri.

He was in charge of the office at Aurora for about two and a half years, coming there from Osceola, and it was largely through his efforts that the Nebraska Gas & Electric Co. was able to secure a twenty-year franchise from the city of Aurora. There had been a somewhat antagonistic feeling between the townspeople and the corporation.

A number of improvements were made in the system at Aurora, while Mr. Harrison was in charge of the office there. Considerable new equipment was put in.

Mr. Harrison was reared in Aurora and was graduated from the high school there in the class of 1913. He later attended the school of Engineering of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln. Upon the completion of his course, he was employed by the Lincoln Traction Co. for several years. At the close of the World War, he was employed by the Public Service Co. of York, later being sent to Osceola, where he was local manager before going to Aurora.

KAN. MINISTER CALLED HERE

SUCCEEDS SNODGRASS

Is Graduate of Drake University and Has Been In Evangelistic Work For Last Year and Half.

The Rev. R. E. Musgrave of Pittsburg, Kan., has been chosen by the members of the official board and the congregation of the First Christian Church here to fill the pastorate made vacant by the resignation of the Rev. R. E. Snodgrass several weeks ago.

The Reverend Mr. Snodgrass started his evangelistic work September 1 and since that time the local church has been without a pastor.

The Reverend Mr. Musgrave is a graduate of Drake University at Des Moines, Ia., having finished his course there in 1909. Up until about two years ago, he served as pastor on the Canadian border, in and around International Falls, Minn., for four years, Adel, Ia., two years, Liscomb, Ia., for five years and Sac City, Ia., for five years.

While with these three churches in Iowa, in each place the Bible school broke all previous records and had the largest individual and average attendance than ever before. He conducted all evangelistic meetings except one and always with increased interest and results.

In January, 1924, Mr. Musgrave started in evangelistic work and has held meetings in a number of cities in Iowa, Kansas and Missouri.

During his four years on the Canadian border, he was in reality doing home missionary work. While there he was in personal charge of the erection of two buildings. He preached in lumber camps, school houses, city halls, store buildings, in the open—almost everywhere and before every class of people to be found in any section.

Mr. Musgrave has been making his headquarters in Pittsburg, Kan., for the last year or two. He preached at the church here both yesterday morning and evening and following the latter service, he was extended the call and formally accepted.

He will probably start his work here on or about October 25.

Mr. Musgrave is married and has two daughters, 9 and 11 years old.

D. A. R. to Sponsor Fashion Show Here

Will Be Held At Empire Theater Next Month—To Be Given In Form Of Pageant.

Members of the Maryville Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, are planning an elaborate Fashion Show to be held at the Empire Theater in November. It will take the form of a pageant depicting American dress from the time of the Revolution down to the latest 1925 model. The affair will supplant the bazaar, which has been an annual fall feature of the D. A. R. organization for a number of years.

Dame Fashion will occupy the center of the stage and models wearing costumes representing every period of dress in American history will appear before her. The majority of these costumes will be genuine and where it is not possible to secure a certain type the greatest pains will be taken in working out a costume. Old fashion sheets will be consulted and careful attention given to details.

Maryville and surrounding towns are being honeycombed for old costumes. Many have already been secured, among them being the wedding gowns and party dresses of former belles. Any one having a costume, either old or modern, which they would like to display will confer a favor by notifying some member of the executive committee, Mrs. George H. Colbert, Mrs. Forrest Gilliam, Mrs. J. A. Speirs or Mrs. E. G. Orear. Any one displaying a costume will have the privilege of choosing the model who shall wear it. Further notices will appear as plans progress.

$149 TAKEN AT WABASH DEPOT

W. D. WILLIAMS, NIGHT OPERATOR HELD UP THIS MORNING.

ESCAPE IN MOTOR CAR

Williams Was Forced to Accompany the Robbers to Overhead Bridge At College—Second Hold Up.

W. D. Williams, night operator at the Wabash passenger depot, was held up at 2:20 o'clock this morning by two men and $149 was secured from the safe of the railroad company and Williams' revolver was taken. This is the second time Williams has been held up at the Wabash, the first time being a year or so ago when a mail sack and some money were taken.

In the holdup this morning, one robber broke the window on the north side of the agent's office while the other one broke the window to the east of the office. Williams was then ordered to unlock the door to his office and after the two men got into the office he was made to unlock the safe. One of the robbers was masked.

After securing the money from the safe, the parties made Williams accompany them to the overhead bridge of the Wabash at the College grounds. Williams returned to the depot and turned in the alarm. Sheriff Campbell with a number of his deputies went to the scene of the robbery and after an investigation they were of the opinion the men escaped in a motor car which was stationed at the crossing west of the College.

Of the money secured from the safe $117 was in currency and the rest was in silver and a check. A check for $9.28 made out to George L. Hulet and endorsed by Hulet was taken.

Williams in his description of the robbers says one of them weighed about 170 pounds, five feet ten inches in height, and had on a light duck coat with fur collar. The other robber was about five feet six inches in height, about 150 pounds weight, had a week's growth of beard, dark suit. No clues have been found up to late this afternoon.

The proposed amendment, which probably will carry a mill tax on all property in the state, will be submitted through the initiative.

Under the proposed amendment, funds for the educational institutions and state support for schools would be raised through the direct method and the plan of distribution would be changed. Under the present system, one-third of the state revenue is set aside for the support of public schools.

Representatives of the University of Missouri, five teachers colleges, Missouri state tax commission, State Teachers Association and the state department of education have been invited to attend the conference here tomorrow.

LEGIONNAIRES TO CONVENTION

150,000 ARE EXPECTED

Is Fifth Annual Meeting of Organization—President Coolidge To Deliver Address Tomorrow.

A number of members of the American Legion in Maryville and Nodaway County will attend the national convention in Omaha this week.

Several left yesterday and others will go today, tomorrow and Wednesday.

More than 150,000 Legion members are expected to attend the convention at Omaha, which is the fifth annual meeting of the organization.

The delegates will come by every means of transportation, from walking to airplanes. Even some will come by flatboat and a large number from South Dakota will make the trip on horseback.

President Coolidge, the most distinguished visitor, will arrive in Omaha early tomorrow morning. He is scheduled to come over the Wabash from St. Louis and will pass through Maryville early tomorrow morning. He will address the convention in the forenoon, review the great parade in the afternoon and will attend the banquet tomorrow night. This is the first Legion to be attended by a President of the United States.

Among those from Maryville who will attend the Legion convention this week are: Edward W. Gray, L. M. Eek, Fred Waggoner, John G. Omaha, Oct. 5.—Col. Colonel Mitchell, it was announced, would not be able to attend because he is held in Washington for the aviation investigation.

MITCHELL TO DEFEND STAND

AVIATION CRITIC STANDS PAT ON ALL CHARGES.

IS READY FOR COURT

Has Arranged Both "Military" And "Civil" Counsel—"No Avoiding Of Any Proposition."

Washington, Oct. 5.—Officially advised by the war department that his conduct and public statements are being investigated with a view of court martial, Col. William Mitchell breathed defiance today.

"Everything we have done," said Mitchell in a public statement this afternoon, "has been found on the broad basis of benefit for the whole country. We are ready for any eventuality that may come. There will be no avoiding of any proposition or compromise in any way, shape or form."

Mitchell announced that when brought to trial Col. H. A. White of the judge advocate general's department will head his "military" counsel and Representative Frank Reid of Illinois, his "civilian" counsel.

Lieut. Byron Connell, pilot of the PN-9 No. 1 plane in the unsuccessful Hawaiian flight, appeared before the President's air board and by inference refuted some of Mitchell's theories.

The broad Atlantic and Pacific form a national defense for the United States against invasion by an enemy power, Connell said.

Against Mitchell's warning of "foreign air invasion," Connell declared there were no planes at present which could fly across either ocean armed with bombs. The pilot said he favored the aviation development plan proposed by Commander John Rodgers of the PN-9 No. 1.

A MODERN WONDER WORKER

In the field of plant development and research one name stands out from all others. His name is synonymous with his profession, and his achievements will long be counted among the wonders of the modern world. This practical naturalist is Luther Burbank, whose retirement was announced within the fortnight; a venerable wizard of the plant world and one of the most picturesque figures of the period in which he has played a conspicuous part.

Burbank has been so fortunate as to see his work appreciated almost at its inception and to have profited in a material way from his experiments. In him is embodied that rare combination of genius and business acumen. And the business in which he engaged permitted him to devote a large portion of his working hours to his profound studies of plant life. He was an artist engaging in business, but unlike many another artist the necessity of making a living in business did not forbid him pursuing his art.

World famous are the Burbank plum and the Burbank-evolved spineless cactus, but of even more practical worth to humanity are the improvements in the stock of vegetable and flowering plants accomplished by this man. He obtained two better blades of grass where before there had been but one. He transferred pigmy flowers into blooms of gargantuan proportions and made trees bear more and better fruit.

While giving humanity better things to eat and while making the world a more beautiful place in which to live, Burbank brought thousands closer to nature and made life more intensely interesting by being an inspiration to amateur gardeners, to home-makers and even to those upon whom the public depends for its vegetable foods and flowers.

LOOKING TOWARDS ELECTRIFICATION

The announcement that two representatives of important Swiss manufacturers of electric railway equipment have arrived in this country at the invitation of the Pennsylvania, Illinois Central and Virginian railroads bears out the suggestion made in this paper a few days ago that the ultimate solution of the local passenger problems on American railroads would be the abandonment of steam.

These railroads, among the greatest and strongest in this country, are making no secret of the fact that they are looking toward the electrification of all or part of their trains. New developments due to improved highways, increasing numbers of automobiles in all parts of the country and the present costs of transportation, all combine to not only invite but to make necessary some different method of handling the situation.

The most inviting field for relief is probably electricity. This wonderful power which has developed such tremendous possibilities seems yet to be in its infancy. The men most familiar with it do not pretend to know its limits and, judging from its development during the last fifty years, what may happen in the next fifty years is beyond human comprehension.

The successful transmission of power over long distances from favorable centers is one of the most potential developments of recent years and it is entirely probable that another early development will be the conversion of coal into power at the place where it is mined, even under the ground, and the transmission of that power over wires to the points where it may be required for use. One of the great problems will be protection against the exhaustion of fuel supplies as well as economy in the production and application of power.

"Skinny stayed with me last night an' we talked about what was here before the world was made, but didn't decide anything."

(Copyright, 1925, Assoc. Eds., Inc.)

Silence, as Judge Gary suggests, may be an aid to success, but something more than keeping still is required.

Some homes are simply places where some woman works for her board and clothes and then don't get any too much of either.

With all the girls accepting employment it looks like the new idea of a "helpmate" would be some one to help meet expenses.

It is said that dresses are sold in weight in Japan. If that plan is ever started here, there will be a big demand for apothecary's scales.

To add to the thrills in aviation, the Riffian chief has offered a reward of $5,000 each for the capture of American flyers soaring over his country.

Some people think a "hick town" is a place where law violators are annoyed by police activities, or, in other words, where the police have good sight and hearing.

A remarkable thing is reported from Paris, France. Telephone operators did not give any subscriber the wrong number for two whole hours. They were on strike.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER
By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer.

* * * * * * * * * * *

Washington—Congress will consider the advisability of having the nation finger-printed.

Police Commissioner Enright of New York proposes it. He wants the government put in charge of the job and would have the prints kept on file by a national police bureau in Washington.

It would be an easy way, he says of enabling the authorities to keep tab on the citizenry, sometimes to its advantage and sometimes otherwise, depending on how it behaves itself.

Very true, only the system isn't confined to Argentina. It prevails in several South American countries and some European ones.

It's a fact, however, that the Argentines have developed it very scientifically—and tactfully, too, or the people mightn't like it so well, for at first thought there's something distinctly disagreeable about the idea of being finger-printed and mugged.

As the Argentine authorities put it, the finger-printing is for the printees' own convenience and by no means as a police precaution, although the police do the printing.

It isn't compulsory, so far as the law is concerned, but practical business considerations have made it very nearly so. Indeed, the police make a small charge—a dollar or two—for doing the work.

In return for this fee a 4x6 inch slip of parchment is issued to the applicant, bearing a brief history of his life, his address, signature, photograph and right thumb print, with the police chief's certificate that he has investigated all these details and guarantees their accuracy.

The whole thing folds into a neat little red leather vestpocketsize booklet and is known as a "cedula de identidad," or identification ticket. A corresponding record is kept at police headquarters.

Bad characters can't get these books so possession of one is a recommendation in itself. The bearer can identify himself—for instance, at strange banks—anywhere in the republic by fishing out his "cedula." If anything happens to him, there's his "cedula" to tell who he is.

The Dead sea is fishless. In this way it is similar to all other bodies of water. Unless fish wear muzzles.

College Enrollment 774 for Fall Term

(The Green and White Courier).

The total enrollment for the fall quarter is now 774, which is larger than for any previous fall quarter in the history of the school. It is an increase of 51 over the enrollment at the close of the fall quarter last year. Mr. Rickenbrode's office now shows an enrollment of 691 and in addition, there are 83 music students not enrolled at the College proper.

The total Conservatory enrollment at the present time, is 141. Of this number 58 are also taking work at the College. There are several out-of-town students who expect to enroll at the Conservatory next week so the complete Conservatory enrollment will probably be something over 150.

Dallas, Tex.—Ordinarily, a normal person is gifted with only thirty two teeth, but physicians at a local hospital discovered that a woman had more than her share by far.

When they pulled out three of her molars, they found forty teeth hidden underneath the roots. She had seventy-two in all, perfectly formed.

London—Plaid stockings for bad-tempered women as a solution of the problem of unhappy marriages were suggested by Dr. Josiah Oldfeild, a medical specialist, in a lecture here.

"In the hunting field a kicking horse is decorated with a bunch of ribbon on its tail, "she said. "A bad-tempered girl ought to wear plaid stockings to warn off unsuspicious suitors."

Witness Says Only One Weapon Is Found

State In Famous Case Starts Efforts To Offset Expected Self-Defense Plea Of Defendant.

Kansas City, Oct. 5.—No weapon other than the revolver with which the state claims James W. Garvey, millionaire lumber man, was shot, was found in Garvey's office after the shooting, C. O. Reeves, patrolman, testified today as the first witness in the resumption of the trial of Roy B. Garvey, accused of his father's murder.

Reeves' testimony was the state's first effort to refute the self-defense theory the defense is expected to advance.

On cross-examination, Senator James A. Reed merely established the fact that Reeves was not the only patrolman in the office soon after the shooting.

Crowds beyond the capacity of Judge Samuel Dew's courtroom again strung out into the corridors.

George Kirchhofer will go to Omaha tomorrow to hear President Coolidge, who will address the American Legion convention tomorrow morning.

Pep Demonstration Credit to High School

Co-Operation Of Student Body Is Commended By Yell Leader At Regular Assembly Held This Morning.

"The co-operation of the student body of the Maryville High School in the pep demonstration last Thursday evening on the uptown streets was well done and was given the deserving support of every enthusiastic student of the school, resulting in much favorable comment from observers."

This is what the yell leader, Forest "Dingy" Howland, said this morning, at an assembly.

Bernhardt Bronson, of the college faculty of music, lead the students in community singing. This is being practiced at every Monday assembly of the school to create among the students a sense of melody—at least an ordinary gift, so that when in attendance at public gatherings, they can sing with some idea as to the value of tune, expression and spirit of the song.

MISSOURI NOTES

St. Louis, Oct. 5.—(INC).—Still further improvement in trade was noted in the past thirty days in the Eighth district, according to the monthly report of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, made public today.

"The demand for commodities of all sorts shows steady expansion and production is being stepped up to meet growing requirements," the statement says. "In a number of lines, notably dry goods, hardware and clothing, some improvement in advance buying has taken place, but as has been the case for a number of months, the major portion of distribution of merchandise is represented in purchasing for immediate requirements."

Agriculture received a setback due to the unusually high temperatures and dry weather in late August and early September, but producers generally are facing good conditions, it is pointed out, because prices for crops and livestock are in the main satisfactory and are returning good profits. Farmers are found to have enlarged their purchases of all commodities and to have replaced old equipment with new.

The employment situation is reported as slightly improved, iron and steel plants increasing their forces. Common labor continues to find steady employment in the continued building activity. A shortage of cotton pickers is reported from some counties in Arkansas, Mississippi and Missouri.

Demand for coal showed a distinct improvement, the anthracite strike acting as an incentive for consumers to lay in their supply of fuel for the winter.

The financial situation was marked by a broadening of the demand from borrowers generally and an advance of from a quarter to a half of one per cent in interest and discount rates.

St. Louis, Oct. 5.—The National Association of Manufacturers will hold its 1925 convention in St. Louis, October 26-28. This will be the first time in twelve years that a convention of the association has been held outside of New York City.

Taxation matters and transportation by rail and air will be the principal topics to be discussed. An invitation has been extended to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to lead the discussion of federal taxation. The secretary has indicated a willingness to be here but in the event his duties will keep him in Washington, he likely will send Under-Secretary Winston, his chief assistant to address the manufacturers.

Brookfield, Mo., Oct. 5.—(INS).—A detailed report is promised of the happenings of the celebration by the Goose Lake Gander Club which met here at a beef roast dinner at the opening of the 1925 weat season. It was an all-day all-night session and many of the guests enjoyed the feast so well they did not return until late the following morning.

St. Louis, Oct. 5.—A movement to have physicians given special traffic privileges when driving automobiles on sick calls is being started by Dr. Fred W. Bailey, president of the St. Louis Medical Society.

The views of Dr. Bailey were contained in a letter to Dr. E. J. Goodwin, secretary of the Missouri State Medical Association, who had asked an opinion from Dr. Bailey on the matter. Physicians from all parts of the country are being asked to express their opinions on the subject by the American Medical Association and will be submitted to the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety.

Kansas City, Oct. 5.—All main lines and branch lines over which packing house refrigerator cars are operated on the Burlington railroad are being oiled to protect the rails, spikes, angle bars and switches from the ravages of brine.

Brine from the tanks is supposed to run out of drain pipes clear of the track but much of it runs onto the rails, switches and other equipment, literally eating the equipment away. The oiling is being performed in a scientific manner by experts and the machine used is run as a special train. The engine is equipped with three air pumps to operate the oiling machine. The oil is heated so it will run smoothly through the pipes.

Dean George H. Colbert of the State Teachers College attended a meeting of the evaluation committee held at Jefferson City Saturday.

The function of this committee is to apply the regulations of the conference agreement and the regulations of the North Central Ass'n., of Colleges and Secondary Schools to cases with regard to which the interpretation of the conference agreement is doubtful.

The evaluation of credits by the committee on evaluation is conditioned upon the requirement that the person concerned satisfactorily complete the normal amount of work in a term, semester, or summer session in a state teachers college or in the University.

In a very dramatic fashion Miss Minnie Beaty recently exercised a woman's prerogative of changing her mind. She left her Nevada home for Los Angeles where she was to meet and marry her sweetheart. The young man happened to be out of town, so his chum met the young lady. They were married the next day.

Alfalfa From Asia

The original home of alfalfa seems to have been in southwest Central Asia. The word is Arabic, meaning "the best fodder." In southern Europe it is known as "lucern," and the name was used for a time in several sections of the United States. Persia was apparently the first nation to grow alfalfa. The Persians took it with them when they invaded Greece in 490 B. C. Gradually it was introduced into other European countries.

The Spaniards in the Sixteenth century took the plant to Mexico and South America, and it gradually found its way into what is now the southwest part of the United States. Not until after the middle of the last century, however, did its value become known as a product of irrigated lands, and extension over the West begin.—Kansas City Star.

Astonished Audience

A man who usually dictates his business letters into a dictaphone was recently asked to say a few words at a public meeting.

He had had no previous experience of facing an audience, but he consented to speak, thinking that, if he were to imagine he was merely addressing his remarks to an inanimate recording machine, he would find things go quite easily for him.

When he had been introduced by the chairman, he stood up, cleared his throat, and began:

"Ladies and gentlemen comma it is a very great underlined pleasure to me to be present here tonight dash although I am naturally somewhat nervous at addressing a public meeting for the first time semicolon but trust it will not be my last full stop."

Day of Glory Gone

The Cinque Ports was the old collective name for the five English channel ports—Sandwich, Dover, Hythe, Romney and Hastings. They were enfranchised by Edward the Confessor, and granted special privileges by William the Conqueror. Up to the reign of Henry VII their chief duty was to supply the country's naval contingent. In the time of Edward I they provided 57 fully equipped ships and often extended their powers by equipping piratical expeditions. Dating from the revolution of 1688, their privileges and powers waned.

LEGIONNAIRES TO CONVENTION

fusely decorated, Omaha is in such a turmoil of excitement and entertainment as the city never before experienced. This convention bids fair to prove the most thoroughly entertained gathering the Legion has ever had, according to Legion officials.

Ten thousand United States regulars, with airplanes, tanks, infantry, cavalry and artillery are encamped here, ready to stage military maneuvers to remind the Legionaires of what they once went through in France. In this connection preparations have been made to spread by airplane a great smoke curtain, a mile high and five miles long.

Among other forms of entertainments provided for delegates and visitors were the greatest fireworks display ever exhibited in this country, a whole trainload of German war trophies; the regular annual fall meet of the Omaha running horse races; a football game between Creighton and Colorado Universities, trap shooting, airplane races, snow ball fights, rodeos boxing, wrestling and a baseball game with "Dazzy" Vance, famous Brooklyn pitcher, on the mound.

The convention program today provided for addresses of welcome and responses at the morning session. The Legionaries were welcomed by Governor Adam McMullen of Nebraska and Mayor James C. Dahlman, Omaha. Afterward memorial services were held for "buddies" who have died.

This afternoon was to be devoted to organization, committee work and other convention details in preparation for the big day tomorrow when the President's address will be heard and the mammoth Legion parade staged.

Tonight Omaha keeps open house. There will be theater parties and dances and banquets for the visitors. Though the delegates and their friends swamped all hotels, the city is caring for its guests by housing them in private homes. Almost every household in Omaha has one or more Legion guests.

Omaha adopted as its convention week motto: "No one walks and no one pays." Legionaires were offered automobiles whenever they wanted to move. An elaborate registration system was relied upon to make sure every visitor had a place to sleep.

The convention will continue until next Saturday when a new national commander to succeed James Drain will be elected and a convention city for next year selected.

The American Legion Auxiliary, the feminine counterpart of the Legion, is very much in evidence here, holding its own convention. The auxiliary was welcomed by the mayor today and in every way its convention activities correspond to those of the ladies masculine fellow veterans.

President Coolidge's address tomorrow will be broadcast by WOAW station here. Twenty-four amplifiers have been installed around the auditorium so that the hundred thousand visitors who will be unable to attend the session while the resident is making his address wil be able to hear his voice. All sessions of the convention will be broadcast by WOAW.

The encampment of the regular army here for the convention was a center of interest. Among the regular units who are here to take part in the general maneuvers are the 16th observation squadron, a Martin bomber from Kelly Field, the 3rd attack group, the 17th Infantry, 1st platoon, 7th Tank Company, the 14th Cavalry, and the 1st battalion, 9th Field Artillery.

Three big questions today promise to enliven the sessions of the convention. In order of their importance in the minds of Legion members, these questions are:

(1) Shall the Legion amend its constitution so as to eliminate the article keeping the organization out of politics and political questions?

(2) Shall the Legion, by official resolution, go on record favoring modification of the Volstead act?

Another Labor Battle on in West Virginia

Here is a scene at Fairmont, W. Va., where John L. Lewis and fifty other officials of the United Mine Workers are attempting to unionize a coal field. The non-union miners are shown leaving the mine, while a deputy sheriff stands guard over a long line of striking union miners. Forty-one injunctions prohibiting picketing have been served on the union leaders.

ROOFING

Roof now with a "Northwest" fireproof ornamental roof. We contract these roofs applied. Do not remove the old wooden shingles. We can lay a better roof over old wooden shingles than can be laid over new tight sheathing boards. Let us explain in person how and why. We have been laying this type of roof covering for twenty-five years and are highly specialized in it. Our materials are manufactured especially for over-shingle application. Our roofing mechanics do nothing but roof over old shingles, year after year, and are therefore expert and efficient. We lay a "tailored" roof. Every detail is cared for in that finished manner and builds into your home an architectural beauty and quiet dignity that will always be a source of satisfacton to you.

Every property owner that we have served is satisfied. You will be equally so.

We will be in Maryville only a comparatively short time this trip with our roofing mechanics. NOW is an opportunity to get a high-class, moderate priced, ornamental fireproof roof applied by men who know how, by a company that is responsible, and be protected by an unqualified guarantee that makes you absolutely safe. A roof is a combination of good materials and skilled workmanship. We supply both and stand back of the completed construction. No divided responsibility. We do every bit of work that is necessary, and then guarantee the work accordingly.

Materials, mechanics and contracting agents are at your service. Let us give you an estimate of the cost of such a roof, and show you our materials. There is no obligation to buy, and we will consider it a favor to show our products.

We do not only roof the house but apply new valley material, new hip and ridge material, paint and point chimneys where needed, paint gutters, decks and porches, do a first-class and thorough job in every manner, and then stand back of it as a complete job.

"Northwest" roofs are sold either for cash or on easy terms. Their quality is unsurpassed, their appearance beautiful and their cost surprisingly low.

Roof N-O-W!

All the roofs we laid in Maryville were satisfactory.

Oddities

By United Press.

Stanwood, Ia.—Jacob G. Walker joined with children, grandchildren and great grandchildren in celebrating his eighty-fifth birthday, but not even a birthday celebration at such an advanced age could be allowed to interfere with his daily duties.

Walker started out with his pushcart to get chicken feed from the mill. He failed to heed a flagman's warning and was ground to death beneath the wheels of a Northwestern flyer.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Grain futures worked to a mixed close on the Board of Trade today. Wheat made substantial gains. Corn sagged while oats made the usual fractional changes for the better.

Trading in corn was rather null. Failure of the market to respond to larger crop propaganda led to the opinion among seasoned veterans that this theory has been discontinued.

Oats were inclined to follow the leading cereal although more or less impervious to influences that swayed sentiments in the latter.

Provisions closed lower.

NEW HEAD AT LABOR MEET

FOR FIRST TIME GOMPERS IS NOT THERE.

NEW BATTLE LOOMS

Green To Stand For Re-election On His Record During Last Ten Months —Convention Opens.

Atlantic City, Oct. 5.—(United Press).—With between 600 and 800 delegates present, the American Federation of Labor called its forty-fifth annual convention to order here today.

For the first time since its organization, a hand other than that of Samuel Gompers wielded the gavel. William Green, who succeeded to the presidency in December 1924, following the death of Gompers occupied the chair.

The chief interest in the convention will be centered on the future leadership of the organization. Green will stand for election in his own right (he holds the post by election of the executive council) and the convention's activities will point toward October 16 when election of officers take place.

The order of business today called for a welcome by the Governor of New Jersey and the Mayor of Atlantic City, and reports of the credentials committee and executive council, followed by adjournment.

During the two weeks before election of officers, problems of organization are scheduled for discussion. The passage of resolutions and balloting will bring the convention to an end October 17.

Green a Candidate.

Green will stand for election on his record during the past 10 months and his announced program for the future. The incumbent official took up the work of the Federation where Gompers left off. Outstanding among his policies is that aimed at communist affords to wrest control of the organization from its presention directive heads by "boring from within."

He has declared that a man or woman cannot be a trade unionist and a communist at one and the same time.

His program for the next year calls for quiet campaigning to "extend the benefits of organized labor" to the brokers who are unorganized.

In the legislative plans of Green are two measures which he considers vital to preserve the rights of American labor unions. These are the restriction of immigration from Mexico and Canada and the further restriction of the use of the injunction in labor disputes.

The convention opened in an atmosphere surcharged with a feeling of recovery from a great loss. Six years ago organized labor came together in Atlantic City in annual convention under somewhat similar circumstances. Then it was a period of reorganization after the world war; today it marked the period of reorganization after the death of Samuel Gompers, president and pioneer in the labor movement, who remained its accepted leader for 45 years.

With a younger man presiding by virtue of his elevation between conventions to the leadership of organized labor, the convention, following its traditional program, swung into consideration of its business with confidence as to the future. The day was to be devoted to acceptance of credentials, addresses of welcome, and the report of the Executive Committee of the federation.

President William Green received an ovation as he mounted to rostrum to receive the gavel which he will hold for the first time as presiding officer of the convention.

"I am confident that the results of this convention will be satisfactory," said Green before the session today.

His name will go before the body next week in nomination to receive endorsement of the action of the Executive Committee December 1, 1924, six days after the death of President Gompers, when he was named to fill the unexpired term. Green was then third vice president of the federation.

Perhaps the most important resolution that will be offered at this convention will be an expression of labor's stand on the modification of the Volstead Act. Some stand, it is believed, will be taken by the convention to carry out the expressed wishes of the various state and central bodies which have gone on record for light wines and beer. This stand may have a marked effect in Congress next session when it begins to gauge the sentiment for liberation of prohibition.

Green's Address.

Renewal of labor's plea for restrictions in immigration and in the use of the injunction is expected to be made when President Green addresses the convention tomorrow. These are regarded as the most important issues affecting labor that will come before the next Congress.

It is likely that the federation will concern itself over the long fought jurisdictional dispute between the brick-layers and plasterers in the building trades, heeding the warning sounded by Secretary of Labor Davis that organized labor is committing suicide by allowing these jurisdictional disputes to go on without settlement.

There are and have been for years a number of aggravating jurisdictional disputes which have defied solution. Plans for strengthening the American Federation of Labor jurisdictional board will be recommended, it was understood, whereby the board will be given power to make awards that must be heeded.

One program that will occupy much of the attention of the convention this year will be ways and means of enlarging the number of workers affiliated with the federation. This has been stressed by the executive council lately as the principal function of the federation.

Extension of the benefits of the trade union movement to the unorganized workers has first place on the program for the coming year. This was the touchstone that gave life to the Pan American Federation of Labor idea which has been advanced during the year under the new leadership. It was in furthering the ends of this new conception of organized labor that President Gompers was stricken in Mexico City last December following the El Paso convention to come home to die at San Antonio Texas, December 13, 1924.

Are Alligators Poultry?

Here's the evolution of an alligator and the pictures show that this reptile is born exactly like a chicken. Above the baby "gator" has just started to force its way out of the egg, while below it is defying zoologists to explain how so much alligator can be contained in such a small egg.

Urging Ellison to Be Candidate Next Year

Kansas City Star Has Write-Up of Prominent Maryville Attorney—Prominent In Politics.

The following is taken from yesterday's Kansas City Star, and was accompanied by a photograph of Mr. Ellison:

Republicans as well as Democrats in Northwest Missouri have been urging George Robb Ellison of Maryville to enter the Democratic primaries next year as a candidate for the state supreme court to succeed Judge A. M. Woodson, formerly of St. Joseph. Mr. Ellison is one of the outstanding lawyers in his part of the state, and has an added advantage of being quite well known in state politics.

For the last two generations, every man in the Ellison family has been a lawyer of distinction. A grandfather, James Ellison, Sr., and an uncle, Andrew Ellison, were circuit judges in Northeastern Missouri. The father of George Robb Ellison—William C. Ellison—was judge of the fourth circuit in Northwest Missouri fourteen years. An uncle, James Ellison, was judge of the Kansas City court of appeals for more than thirty years.

George Robb Ellison has been a member of the Democratic state committee several years. He was a delegate to the national convention in New York from the fourth congressional district. Mr. Ellison never has held an elective position.
